

Grantham – a market town in Lincolnshire, England

It is situated 180 km to the north of London.

There are over 35 thousand inhabitants.

The town is best known as the birthplace of former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, and the place where Isaac Newton went to the King's Grammar School.

The old Guildhall

St. Wolfram's Church

Isaac Newton attended this school.

The King's Grammar School

The house where Margaret Thatcher was born.